With their 10th studio album, the German rock band BONFIRE and its original members, singer CLAUD LESSMANN and guitarist HANS ZILLER, celebrate the band's 20th anniversary. The new album "Double X" takes you back to Bonfire's roots. Thus, one may be tempted to call it the follow-up to their bestsellers "Fireworks" or „Strike Ten“.

"Double X" impresses with powerful, pumping and transparent melodic hard rock. With uptempo tracks such as "Day 911" or the double bass shuffle "Bet Your Bottom Dollar", the rockers from Ingolstadt show that they still know how to kick ass. But also the committed "Cry For Help" and the monumental "Blink Of An Eye" will immediately touch the listeners. In the controversial "Rap Is Crap!", singer CLAUD LESSMANN critically and sarcastically deals with this kind of music.

Even after 20 years, BONFIRE still represent an extremely creative team. The band's current line-up is completed by bass player UWE KOEHLER, drummer JUERGEN WHIELER as well as guitarist CHRIS LIMBURG.

"Double X" delivers great rock. With "Right Things Right" and "But We Still Rock" BONFIRE fortify their claim to leadership as one of the best German bands of their genre.

To quote one of their older song titles "Hot To Rock": The boys are still hot and rock big time!
